

Therapeutic Guidelines

Therapeutic Guidelines provide clear and concise, independent and evidence-based recommendations for patient management, developed by some of Australia's leading experts. These experts, with many years of clinical experience, work with skilled medical editors to evaluate research data, systematic reviews, local protocols and other sources of information, to ensure that clear and practical recommendations are developed based on the best available evidence.

Independent

Therapeutic Guidelines Limited is a not-for-profit organisation that prepares, publishes and distributes nationally based prescribing guidelines. It does not accept any advertising or receive any outside funding. Revenue from the sale of Therapeutic Guidelines completely finances their production.

Reliable

Therapeutic Guidelines are the result of teamwork. Expert writing groups comprise specialist doctors, general practitioners, pharmacists, nurses and health professionals who are involved in clinical practice. The editorial process includes wide-ranging literature searches, rigorous quality control procedures, extensive peer review, and input from a broad network of general practitioners and other users.

Relevant

With patients' problems as the guiding principle, Therapeutic Guidelines bring together clinically relevant information and put it into context.

Respected

For over thirty-five years, Therapeutic Guidelines have provided comprehensive, disease-based recommendations for therapy.

Therapeutic Guidelines are written principally for prescribers, providing them with clear, practical and up-to-date therapeutic information and recommendations for patient management at the point of care.
